

Online Engagement Opportunities for 2011 Target Setting

The Puget Sound Partnership has an approach for you to provide input and join online discussions about the draft target options through the website MyPugetSound.net. This online venue allows interested people to join a discussion about a target area and provide comments, thoughts, and perspectives as well as interact with others interested in a target area. The Partnership will use the information provided through this online forum to supplement the discussion and input heard during the target-setting workshops in April and May when it prepares its presentation on stakeholder perspectives about targets to the Ecosystem Coordination Board and Leadership Council.

Here are the steps to participate in this online forum:

Create an account on MyPugetSound.net

1. Go to <http://www.mypugetsound.net>
2. Create an account by clicking the green button “Join” on the front page
3. Once you are registered, you can edit your profile to include a picture, interests, affiliation, and other information.
4. A confirmation email will be sent to your email address with an activation link. Once you click on that link, you are able to start using MyPugetSound.net

Join the group on target-setting

1. At <http://www.MyPugetSound.net>, click on “Groups” on the top toolbar
2. Find the “PS Partnership Target Setting” group
3. Click on “Join Group”
4. You can also navigate directly to the group by entering this link: <http://tinyurl.com/62mbbty>

Once you have joined the group, you are able to begin engaging in the discussions on target areas. Individual discussion topics are available for each target area. Each discussion topic has a link to the applicable technical memorandum on the draft target options.

Note: MyPugetSound is still a site still in development. If you have feedback about the use of the site, please click on the “Feedback” button on the right-hand side of the screen. This feedback will be helpful as the Partnership begins using MyPugetSound for more work.

Beginning in May, there may be additional online engagement opportunities to provide feedback on the target options, such as voting or ranking of draft target options. The Partnership will use the MyPugetSound.net target-setting group as one way to announce these opportunities.
